

SOUTH WEST GOULBURN LANDCARE NETWORK PRESENTS

THE UNINVITED GUEST

A villain in reddish brown, seven millimetres tall, with a hundred eggs a day to lay.

Now appearing in tomatoes, apricots, plums and apples from Seymour to Broadford.

ACT I. THE STING. She lays through the skin of ripening fruit.

ACT II. THE MAGGOT. The crop rots from the inside.

ACT III. THE ESCAPE. Larvae slip into the soil below.

ACT IV. THE RETURN. A new cast emerges, hungrier.

CLOSE THE SHOW EARLY

Net after fruit set. Hang traps at head height in the shade.
Pick up every fallen fruit. Never compost the evidence.

Final notices at the Seymour Show, Kings Park, 2 and 3 October.

NOT THIS SEASON.
